

SHOPMEN WILL MAKE SEPARATE AGREEMENTS

PRESIDENT JEWELL IS AUTHORIZED TO SIGN BY POLICY COMMITTEE

This Action Will End Strike With Between 30 and 52 of the 202 Class One Railroads
—Probable That Many Other Railroads
Will Also Enter Into the Agreement

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The policy committee of the striking railway shop crafts today authorized B. M. Jewell, strike leader, to sign a separate peace agreement with individual roads.

This action, it was stated, would end the strike on from 30 to 52 of the 202 class one railways which entered into direct negotiations with Mr. Jewell recently at Baltimore and on any others who cared to accept the peace terms.

With the announcement that partial peace had been voted, came the first definite statement from S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line and representative of a railroad securities company said to control $13,000,000 of stock which showed he was responsible for negotiations that finally ended in the agreement.

The agreement was reached before the committee of 90 adjourned about 2 o'clock this morning but it was not announced until 6 o'clock.

The peace settlement plan also would apply to the Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen & Oilers, some 15,000 members of which followed the strike action of the six federated shop crafts.

GENERAL PERSHING CELEBRATED SIXTY SECOND BIRTHDAY

Says Victory at St.
Mihiel Four Years Ago "Great Day"

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Surrounded by flowers sent by general staff officers and others who recalled the significance for him of the date, John J. Pershing spent his 62nd birthday today at his desk in the war department, busy with the tasks of his dual post as general of the armies and chief of staff.

Among memories of his more than three score years there was one which must have stood out sharply in the general's mind, for this also was the anniversary of the sweeping victory of the army under his command at St. Mihiel, four years ago. The assault was launched Sept. 12, but it was on September 13, that the deep salient the Germans had held for four years on the western front was completely obliterated by the American command and waging battle in France for the first time as an American army. In all the history of the great war there is no record of a more decisive stroke for victory.

General Pershing had little to say when St. Mihiel was mentioned but his eyes sparkled like a boy's.

Having reached his 62nd birthday, General Pershing is eligible for retirement from active service either on his own request or by action of the president but he contemplates no change at this time. He said today he thought with "consternation" of the inactivity which retirement would mean, and added that there was still much to do in passing on in permanent form the military experience gained in France by the American army. It is to that task that the former commander of the A. E. F. has set himself since his return from France.

As to the success of the new one army military policy with regulars, national guard and organized reserve considered as a single force, General Pershing was enthusiastic. The summer training camps which are the backbone of the system had been splendidly said and by using army instructors regular officers fresh from courses at the various army service schools.

RADICALS ARE SENT TO MICHIGAN

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Al Broder, editor of the Labor World, and secretary to W. Z. Foster, and Philip Aronberg, both of whom were arrested as a result of the raid on the alleged radical meeting in the dunes of Berrien county, Michigan, were extradited today and sent to the sheriff there to stand trial for alleged criminal syndicalism.

BARUCH GIVES HIS OPINION ON ALLIED DEBT CONTROVERSY

Says England Would Have to Renounce
All Reparations

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Inter-cancellation of war debts by the allies and the United States as suggested by the Earl of Balfour, the British foreign minister, could in the opinion of B. M. Baruch, be considered by America only in event that Great Britain should renounce as did this country, all reparation claims against Germany.

Mr. Baruch, who acted as economic adviser to the American commission to the Versailles peace conference, set forth this view with other observations on the war debt question in a letter received and read by Senator Borah today in the senate. The letter discussed the reparations and war debt questions at length, its writer declaring it would be difficult to convince the American people that the allies were unable to pay the ten billion dollars loaned them by the United States during the war as long as they were demanding payment on at least that amount by Germany as reparations.

The inter-cancellation suggestion of the Balfour note represented only one school of European thought, Mr. Baruch said, adding that he was convinced all of the nations to whom the United States loaned money could pay and would pay if given sufficient time and opportunity. Germany also, he asserted, could meet the reparations demands of the allies if accorded the same treatment. Readjustment of the inter-allied debts and the German reparations questions, he wrote, must be treated together.

Deals With Suggestions
Mr. Baruch dealt at length with suggestions put forward by some British spokesmen that the United States in considering the British debt should take into consideration that the money loaned to Britain was used largely to buy supplies in the United States.

"Surely money that was spent for things that went into the making of shipping, which became a permanent part of the mercantile fleet of England or money that was used for the purchase of such material as went for commercial purposes, or to bolster exchange or to pay for loans or materials obtained previously to our entering the war if there were such, cannot be considered a contribution to a common cause and therefore, should not be cancelled," he continued. "The same applies in instances where food was bought for England's civilian population not for her soldiers and was paid for by that population. It must be remembered that the English government did not give but sold to its people food bought in this country."

"On the other hand, in practically every instance where purchases were made in England by us after we entered the war, they were paid for in cash and not by means of a loan by England to America. Again, America paid England for ferrying our soldiers to Europe."

REGULAR BULLETINS TO BE DISCONTINUED

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Announcing the best day since her illness, Mrs. Harding had enjoyed the best day since her illness, she became critical the night statement from the white house physicians said convalescence was proceeding so satisfactorily that the regular bulletins would be discontinued from this time.

The statement follows:
"Mrs. Harding's condition at 8 p. m.:
Temperature 100; pulse, 90; respiration, 26.

"All appearances and conditions show the best day since the serious onset of the illness. Convalescence will necessarily be tedious. All things going well; symptoms will vary only slightly from day to day. Sufficient reports will be given to relate progress of case. Regular bulletins will be discontinued.

CHURCH MUST AVOID SENSATIONALISM

Keokuk, Iowa, Sept. 13.—The Methodist church must rescue, of any sort, professionalism and fanaticism from the Rev. L. K. Wellman of Wilkes Barre, Pa., today told members of the Iowa Methodist conference in annual session here. Sensationalism tending to destroy dignity of appeal must be avoided, he said.

Shopmen Give Credit To Railroad Head

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The executive council of the shopmen authorized the following statement in explanation of the agreement:

"The settlement speaks for itself. If the statement shown by S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line had prevailed at the outset differences would have been composed in a week. Railroad employees are not breakers of the law but they are human and expect to be accorded the consideration which they believe they are entitled to receive as the inalienable right of the American citizen.

"We sought settlement thru the peaceful method of continued negotiations not by resorting to violence or other unlawful acts. The injunction secured by the attorney general coming as it did near the close of these important and far reaching negotiations would have if secured 48 hours earlier, disrupted them. We have neither criticism to make nor excuses to offer. We accepted the administration's proposal for settlement and were not responsible for the misapplication of alleged understandings between the administration and the chairman of the association of railway executives to which its defeat by that body was attributed. Neither were we responsible for the labor provision of the transportation act.

"We conducted our proceedings under well recognized labor policies of long standing. The public will not believe that the rank and file of labor condone acts of violence resulting in loss of life among train service employees and others. Thru the constant effort of the officers of the organizations law and order was generally well maintained and such sporadic acts of lawless and violence as occurred were few in number when one considers the 400,000 men engaged in the strike and the pressure upon these men and hundreds of thousands of other persons directly or indirectly affected. We approached the railroads recognizing their difficulties as we expected them to appreciate ours.

"The method of procedure adopted by the policy committee at the meeting is that no men on any railroad even though included in the settlement at this time are to return to work until they have received the necessary directions from their respective system federations. The system federations on railroads not now parties to the agreement will be directed to secure conferences with the proper railroad officials and endeavor to secure this agreement from their railroads, in which event the men will return to work. Necessary arrangements will be made to sustain and assist all men on all railroads who are forced to remain on strike because of the refusal of such railroads to join the agreements made."

CROPS RIPENED TOO RAPIDLY ON ACCOUNT OF DRY HOT WEATHER

This True in Illinois Tho
Crop is Generally
Fair to Good

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Continuation of the prevailing hot and mostly dry weather during the first part of the week ending September 12, caused maturing crops to ripen too rapidly, the weather bureau reported today in its weekly review. Rain was said to have been sufficient in the latter part of the week to improve materially conditions in the lower Mississippi Valley as well as from Oklahoma and Kansas northward across the lake states. The weather was mostly favorable for harvesting except for certain districts in the upper great plains and in the south.

Threshing of small grains was reported to have progressed favorably being well advanced in the northern states.

Late corn was found to have benefited by rain last week in the central and lower Mississippi valleys and in Western Kentucky parts of Tennessee and in many southeastern districts. In northern and Eastern Illinois it had matured too rapidly, but taking the state as a whole the crop was said to be "generally fair to very good."

Cutting and silo filling was in progress in most states.

REPUBLICANS ADOPT PARTY PLATFORM

(By The Associated Press)
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 13.—The State Republican convention adopted today party platform today. The platform endorses the national and state Republican administrations and condemns the Democrats for their alleged holding up, by referendum, legislation "designated for economy and more efficiency in state affairs."

A declaration as to labor, an appeal for the observance and enforcement of law and a renewed pledge to the cause of education are other features in the platform.

BOYS ARE GIVEN LIFE SENTENCES

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Sentences of life imprisonment were imposed on two boys, one 16 and the other 19, today when they confessed, after standing trial for a week, to the murder of Police man Jerry J. Busse. The elder boy Charles Shader, has been suspected of two other murders during the past year, those of his father and sister. He was freed of charges in those deaths, but it was while he was held for slaying his sister that he was implicated in the slaying of the policeman.

Busse was killed last January 26, when he was walking in Garfield Boulevard on his way to call on a young woman whom he was to marry. Two armed youths stopped from an alley. Busse attempted resistance. The boys shot him dead.

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE PLEAS ADMINISTRATION

Was Last Obstacle to Period of National Prosperity

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Agreement between a number of key railroads and the shop crafts unions upon a basis for ending the strike of machinists and associated workers was received today with unanimous approbation by administration officials. Government leaders generally interpreted the authorization of B. M. Jewell, strike leader, to proceed with negotiations on a basis already accepted by a number of railroads, as the beginning of the end of the transportation strike as a whole.

Restoration of peace between railroads and employees would mean the removal of the last obstacle which has prevented the coming of a period of national prosperity according to cabinet members and government experts.

President Harding is known to have been convinced of this by reports laid before him.

Secretary Davis congratulated American industry on having overcome the last obstacle in the way of the greatest economic revival that the nation has ever known. The American workman "faces a period of plentiful employment," the labor secretary said, "at the same high wages which prevailed before the recent period of depression."

According to reports to Mr. Davis between 35 and 40 per cent of the country's railroads are affected by the potential settlement with an aggregate mileage of between 65,000 and 80,000.

WALKER WINS IN GEORGIA PRIMARY

(By The Associated Press)
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 13.—Clifford W. Walker, who was defeated two years ago by Thomas W. Hardwick for governor of Georgia, appeared to have turned the tables and won a sweeping victory in the Democratic primary for the gubernatorial nomination today on the face of incomplete returns received up to 11:30 o'clock tonight by the Atlanta Constitution.

These figures indicated that Walker had carried 103 counties with a county unit vote of 268 or a majority of the 416 unit votes and that Hardwick had 41 counties with a total of vote of 166.

Sixteen counties were yet to report.

HERE IS NEW POLITICAL PARTY

(By The Associated Press)

Koehler resides in the fourth senatorial district. The physiocrats believed in a system of political and economic doctrines based on the supremacy of the natural order. The emphasized the powers of nature as a source of public revenue and the necessity of governing so as not to interfere with the natural laws affecting industry.

HARRIMAN DENIES GREEN STATEMENT

New York, Sept. 13.—Joseph W. Harriman, president of the Harriman National Bank today denied a statement attributed to William Green, secretary and treasurer of the United Mine Workers, at Atlantic City, that a loan of $100,000 made to that organization had been without security. "Ample security was furnished to cover the loan," Mr. Harriman said.

He would not divulge the nature of the security.

HOW SETTLEMENT OF RAILWAY SHOPMEN'S STRIKE WAS REACHED

S. Davies Warfield, President of the Seaboard Air Line, Gives Out Statement Telling How Agreement Was Finally Reached —Effect of the Strike in Other Industries

(By The Associated Press)
BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 13.—How the tentative settlement of the railway shopmen's strike was agreed upon in a four days' conference in this city was told in a statement this evening by S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line, and the president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities.

The conference began at the office of Mr. Warfield in Baltimore on Sept. 2, between Mr. Warfield and B. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employees Department, American Federation of Labor, and two of Mr. Jewell's associates.

Settlement was made possible, Mr. Warfield said, when at the meeting of the Association of Railway Executives, that passed the resolution breaking off negotiations, he as president of the Seaboard Air Line, cast the only vote against the resolution.

This action left the way open for direct negotiation with B. M. Jewell that led to the termination of the strike. These settlement conferences at later sessions also were attended by A. H. Smith, president of the New York Central lines; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and members of the executive council railway employees department American Federation of Labor.

At the conclusion of negotiations Mr. Jewell called the meeting of the policy committee of the railway employees department at which terms of agreement have been accepted. Mr. Willard undertaking to present the conditions of settlement to a number of railroads.

Mr. Warfield's statement after detailing these negotiations concluded:

"Regional railroad labor boards should be properly and promptly established. A board named by each group of railroads that operate in each of the four rate-making districts into which the commission has divided the country; the men of each group of railroads also to organize boards to confer with the regional railroad boards. Negotiations could be successfully carried on and disputed questions settled if approached in good faith.

"The ill-effects of this strike have not been confined to the railroads. Judge Gary made a 20 per cent increase in the wages of steel employees to prevent them from accepting employment with the railroads which were advertising for them. Having occasion to confer with officials of a number of car manufacturing companies now building cars for the railroads I found that a number of shops were nearly closed down. In others labor difficulties caused increases in wages from 20 per cent to 33 per cent to hold their men, many leaving to take employment in railroad shops. Columns upon columns of newspaper advertisements by railroads for men told the story. This could not continue without serious disruption of the industrial labor structure.

"A shortage of equipment by a continuance of the shop crafts strike has thus been augmented by the failure of car manufacturers to deliver cars because the railroads have been taking their men an apparent illustration of the 'vicious circle.'" way near Arnold. When the work is completed the hard road will be the safer for travel and will be a still more active competitor of the Wabash. The road management shows a generous spirit by taking prompt action.

The wooden ships recently sold by the government for about $750,000 represent a loss of nearly $299,000,000. This item added to some other expenses will easily explain why war taxes must continue for some time to come.

The Small trial is said to have cost Sangamon county about $90,000, yet it does not seem to have been necessary to raise any funds by private subscription or by appeal to civic organizations. Where there is the will there is the way.

There is no reason for getting hysterical but really the oil and gas prospects hereabouts are worthy of just a little excitement. Perhaps local people are waiting for a deep well before manifesting their enthusiasm.

The death of the "flying parson" is but another testimony to the fact that aviation has risks enough without stunt flying. Its normal casualties are a sufficient price to pay for its benefits to date.

The policy committee of the railroad shippers has authorized settlements with individual roads according to a plan which has been under consideration for the past ten days. That seems a most reasonable way of ironing out the difficulties between the workers and the railroads. Certainly the problems of the New York Central workers are not identical with those of the Southern Pacific. Living and other conditions vary greatly in the different parts of the country and there are reasons for different wage scales.

MODEST HEROES
It is worth noting as a measure of the estimate put on the services of Americans in the world war by other governments than their own, says the Portland Oregonian, that more than twice as many foreign decorations were bestowed on American soldiers than were conferred by the United States. Awards made by foreign military, naval and auxiliary branches, thru their governments, numbered 17,787, while domestic testimonials to conspicuous service or heroism were only 7109. In all the United States military forces only eighty men received the congressional medal of honor, the equivalent of the British Victoria

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

The Supreme Test

BY BERTON BRALEY

OF all the pests that roam the earth,
And heaven knows there are enough!
The worst, I think, is he whose mirth
Grows gayest when your luck is tough.
In brief, one of these subtle birds,
Who sees you looking sad and glum,
And hands you out these joyous words,
"Cheer up, the worst is yet to come!"

THE "Grin and Bear It" chap is bad,
The blithe "Don't Worry" bloke's a dub,
They drive me pretty nearly mad,
I'd like to whale 'em with a club.
But they are harmless, meek and mild,
Compared to that infernal bum
Whose laughing motto makes me wild,
"Cheer up, the worst is yet to come!"

SOME day I'll catch that gink alone
And with a thick and hard shillally,
I'll break each individual bone
Which he may have—and do it gaily.
And as at length he passes out,
I'll whisper in his tympanum,
"You think you're out of luck, no doubt;
Cheer up, the worst is yet to come!"

"--And So I Turned Down the King," Says Irene, But Read!

IRENE BORDON.

By JOHN O'DONNELL.

NEW YORK—"And then there was that little affair with the King of Spain."

The interviewers gasped and rustled their copy paper nervously.

Irene Bordon lapsed into silence. Her gaze dropped modestly. Irene always did have that habit with her eyes. The effect is devastating.

"Ye?" we promoted heartlessly. Maidenly modesty must not stand in the way of international scandal.

And now Irene glanced appealingly at her press agent.

"Must she bare her soul? Those lambert orbs telegraphed. The press agent heart was stony.

"You see, it all happened at Danville," she began. It may be explained that Danville is a Parisian Atlantic City entirely surrounded by Americans. Danville and the Riviera are the two places where runaway couples go in the "second act of English comedies."

"Well, I was dancing in the Casino," Irene continued. Then, explaining: "You know, you can have a good time in those places if you go with your own crowd."

We nodded.

"Well, the King of Spain tried to cut in. I didn't want to dance with him. He said something in French. They say those things so much better in French, don't you think so?"

"Of course, I couldn't think of dancing with every man who asked me. So I told him—"

"You told him?"

"I told him he had the advantage of me. Thought I'd freeze him a bit. Well, he said he was the king of Spain and had met me in Paris. There was nothing in that, of course. I can remember every man I ever met in Paris—almost every one, I mean.

"So I just told him I was particular whom I danced with and left him. That's all.

The press agent nodded sadly. "Very regrettable affair. But you know these things—" a shrug finished the sentence.

We nodded sympathetically.

"Why the 'I B' monogram on your tunic?" we asked hurriedly to change the embarrassing subject.

"It means I Be glad I Be Back," Miss Bordon said wittily. Quite wittily.

Acceptance of the offer involves an amendment to the state templar constitution.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 13.—Sheriff George Heikes of Iroquois county did not hesitate about duty today, but locked his son in jail pending the result of inquest into the fatal shooting yesterday of Earl Wendell of Chicago, a student at the University of Illinois. Wendell was shot by Deputy Sheriff A. F. Heikes, a son of the sheriff.

"I have my son in jail until the inquest can be held," the sheriff said today.

Keokuk, Ia., Sept. 13.—The Carthage, Ill., college chorus last night rendered a musical program for the delegates attending the 79th annual meeting of the Iowa conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Paris, Sept. 13.—Former Premier Venizelos of Greece, arrived in Paris today from Switzerland. His friends here declared he planned his present visit here for conferences with political and personal friends regarding the situation in Athens with a view, it was felt, to the possibility of his being called back to power in Greece.

London, Sept. 13.—The General News in a dispatch from Athens, says it is reliably informed that the Jugo-Slavian and Rumanian governments have evidenced without equivocation their intention of aiding Greece in the event of a Balkan conflict. "NOTHING TO WEAR," AGE
OLD WAIL OF BRIDE, 14

MRS. CLAUDE OLIPHANT.

MACON, Ga.—Getting married at 14 worried little Miss Florence Bright enormously. No so much because she was only 14 and her parents objected—but because she didn't have things to wear.

(Which shows, doubtless, that she was more grown up than people thought.)

Naturally it was an elopement. Papa and mama were going to send her away to boarding school because they thought she was seeing too much of Claude (that's Claude Oliphant, the 19-year old husband.)

"I didn't think we were really and truly going to get married that night when Claude and I started for the show," said young Mrs. Oliphant. "But when we got on the street car he said, 'Flossie!' (That's what he calls me, you know), 'Flossie,' he said, 'we're going to get married tonight!' He said he had the license in his pocket. Well, I told him I just couldn't. I didn't have on the right clothes to get married in—just a plain little voile dress, you know!"

Young Mrs. Oliphant shuddered at the thought. She added: "But when Claude said the preacher was waiting for us I just couldn't disappoint him!" (Which shows no doubt, that the thrill of romance, even at 14 rises above feminine fashion instincts.

"When we got almost there," young Mrs. Oliphant went on, "I said to myself, 'No, I'm not going to do it!' But we finally got there—and I just didn't see any sense in backing out!"

No, she isn't a bit sorry. She says she likes married life—"for Claude is so sweet, and he's good looking, too!"

(She keeps Claude's picture in a little frame on the table—they're living with the young husband's parents—and she's proud of a gold wedding ring, even if it is several sizes too large for her 14-year old finger.)

"I've tied a piece of string around it to make it fit until my finger grows," she said.

Young Mrs. Oliphant is taking some tucks out of her dresses, to help her grow up in a hurry.

"I want to look like a married lady," she said. "Being married is oceans better than going off to a stick old boarding school where old maid teachers won't even let you peep out of the window."

(She got her first wound stripe, too. There's a bandage on the first finger of her right hand where she burned herself trying to cook Claude's supper the second night of their honeymoon.)

FIRST CASE IN MINE MASSACRE HEARD

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Hearing of the first case under the Illinois Workmen's Compensation act, for claims as a result of the mine massacre at Herrin, Ill., last June was before the state industrial commission today. About 15 plaintiffs were in attendance.

Thomas Fleming of Chicago, the first witness said he went to Herrin to work on the Southern Illinois Coal company's strip mine where more than a score of men were slain in the fighting between striking miners and sympathizers and non-union employees. Fleming said he was wounded in the "death march" after the mine employees surrendered on June 22. The attack on the mine with dynamite, Fleming said, started on the night before.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hardwick were up to the city from Merritt yesterday.

CONFESSED SLAYER
OF TWO DAUGHTERS
FAILS IN SUICIDE

Tony Dinello is Recovering in Kansas City Hospital from Wounds

(By The Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—Tony Dinello, confessed slayer of his two daughters was in a local hospital recovering from a cut in his throat, he having attempted to take his own life last night. Dinello had been taken to his home and had just demonstrated to police and detectives how he had killed his two daughters. He told the officers how he had thrown the bodies from a near-by bridge. He asked to be permitted to enter his box car house so that he might hunt for some money there.

Climbing upon a chair so that he might see on top of a shelf, Dinello snatched a rusty razor blade and cut his throat. He was rushed to a hospital, where he is being kept under guard. Doctors said he will probably live.

He told police of Kansas City, Kans., how his two daughters had displeased him by staying out late at night. Some money he had in the house was missing, he said and when the rest of the family was gone he took the two girls to the chicken shed to question them about it. He became angry, he said at their replies to his questions and finally hit the younger daughter on the head with a hammer. The other daughter attempted to run away but he caught her and killed her with the same weapon. After dark he returned to the chicken house and tied the girls' bodies in gunny sacks, after which he carried them to the bridge and dropped them into the Kaw river.

The bodies were found by fishermen after they had floated down stream into the Missouri river.

No charges have been placed against Dinello.

L. F. O'Donnell and Ray Morris went to Chicago yesterday to bring back autos.

Portland, Indiana.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial."—STELLA NEWTON, R. R. 3, Portland, Indiana.

Mothers—You should carefully guard your daughter's health. Advise her of the danger which comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, or overworking. Do not let her overstudy. If she complains of headache, pains in back or lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, give her careful attention. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for your daughter to take, as it is especially adapted to relieve just such symptoms. Remember it contains nothing that can injure her.

KNIFE JAB CAUSES EMIL LUNDGREN TO ENTER GUILTY PLEA

Alleged Kidnap Will Be Sentenced by Judge
Louis FitzHenry

ENJOYED VISIT TO NOVA SCOTIA

Jacksonville People Return From Trip to Arcady Country Made Famous in Longfellow's Evangeline.

Jacksonville travelers who were recently in Nova Scotia found it a very interesting part of Canada. Mrs. George Myers, Miss Traube and Mr. Gates Strawn have returned after spending four weeks there. They were in Halifax, Yarmouth, St. John and Grand Pre. The last mentioned place is immortalized in Longfellow's "Evangeline" and the Jacksonville tourists found many objects of interest there.

There is no hotel at Grand Pre but a hostelry for tourists is maintained on the beach two miles distant. The country all about is beautiful indeed, not so much from the landscape but particularly because of the beautiful trees and wonderful gardens. It really looks like one great orchard, for the raising of apples is one of the principal industries. Apple raising is handled on something of a community basis, there being great store houses where all growers may place their apples before shipment. Mr. Strawn had the thought that much of the fruit was probably sent into the U. S. but discovered that all shipments are made to England—that is, of the late variety of the fruit. The early apples are practically worthless because they are so far from market.

The Arcadians have plans for the rebuilding of a church and some other structures mentioned in "Evangeline" and the country will take on added interest for travelers in the days to come.

Mr. Strawn and others in the party are not new to travel but they have seldom made a journey which they found so full of interest and pleasure as this trip into the Nova Scotia country.

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—"Big Tim" Murphy, Chicago's picturesque labor leader, whose six year sentence for the $386,000 Dearborn Station mail robbery in April, 1921, was affirmed yesterday by the United States circuit court of appeals, prepared today to carry his fight to the United States supreme court.

At the same time the police admitted that Vincenzo Cosmano, under sentence with Murphy has fled to Italy.

Cosmano faced four years in Leavenworth for his part of the mail robbery.

Murphy, a former member of the Illinois legislature and for years a notorious figure in labor wars and sensational murder cases, faced the first prison sentence imposed upon him on all his trials.

In addition to their sentences, fines of $30,000 against Murphy and $20,000 against Cosmano were imposed by Former Federal Judge Landis.

Pile Driving Construction Is Underway—Hard Road Open to Alexander

It will be of interest to the public to know that the Wabash railroad has begun the construction of the subway on the hard road east of Arnold. W. E. Sullivan, president of the Morgan County Good Roads Association, accompanied by Henry Frisch, made a trip over the road yesterday and found that the Wabash has piles on the ground for the construction work—in fact, some of the piles have already been driven, and the statement has been made by Wabash officials that the work will be pushed just as rapidly as possible.

Contractor Lonergan yesterday opened to traffic the hard road from Arnold to Alexander. It is possible now to travel over hard roads all the way from Jacksonville to Alexander except for the short detour necessary while the subway mentioned is in course of construction.

GAUGE ON GAS WELL PROVES BIG FLOW

Million and a Half Feet Is Recorded—Standard Oil Company
Man Here Wednesday—Big Drilling Contract Pending.

A million and a half cubic feet of gas in 24 hours is the way the well on the Coons farm in the Rhodes and Moorehead oil and gas field tested out yesterday. J. R. Pierce of Pittsburgh, Pa., a representative of the Standard Oil Co., was with Messrs. Rhodes & Moorehead when the test was taken yesterday afternoon.

This well, which struck the sand at 273 feet, has been running wild since Thursday, as efforts to cap it were not successful until yesterday. A steam gauge was secured for testing purposes and the tests made yesterday made the splendid showing already mentioned.

Mr. Rhodes is confident that this will yet develop into a 2,000,000 feet well. The finding of gas of such a volume will be of great aid in developing the field, cutting down the fuel expense. This well was drilled by the Five Star Co. and the company has moved its rig to the northeast corner of the Mahon farm. The next well to be put down is one-fourth of a mile from the gas well but the gas will be piped to the new well. The same plan will be followed in other drilling work as it is both expensive and difficult to use coal for the drilling operations.

M. E. Goddard of the Eagle Oil Co., who has been spending a week here, watching operations, left yesterday but is to return in the course of a few days.

Another Standard Oil man is to come today to again confer with Messrs. Rhodes & Moorehead with reference to a contract for development work. Several minor contracts would have been made for drilling in recent days had it not been that Mr. Rhodes was awaiting final action on the part of the Standard Co. That company will not take over field of this kind if scattered operations are under way by other companies.

Naturally the local men prefer to make a contract with the Standard Co. if satisfactory agreement can be reached, and so several smaller possible contract arrangements are being held in abeyance.

If the contract with the Standard is made it will mean several additional drilling outfits at once and a test on every 40 acre tract of the whole in the Rhodes & Moorehead field. It will also mean that at least some of the wells will be put down into the deep sand.

A pump is to be put on well No. 2 in the Mahon farm today and it will be possible then to make an entirely definite showing as to just what this well will produce. It was estimated from the original flow that it is of 25 barrel size. Meanwhile it can be put down as a fact that the development of the field is moving along in a very satisfactory way and the showing thus far made is very encouraging.

A few gas wells of the size drilled on the Coons farm would produce a supply sufficient for all of Jacksonville. The finding of other wells would no doubt mean that the company would sell their product to the local gas company or make an effort for authority to enter into private contract.

Be sure to hear Dr. John T. Thomas this afternoon and evening at Waverly Sunday School convention.

WILL SUBMIT TO OPERATION TODAY

W. L. Alexander, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, will submit to an operation at Our Savior's hospital this morning. The operation will be performed by Dr. F. A. Norris and Dr. Dean Lewis, professor of surgery of Rush Medical college will be present.

WILL RECEIVE BIDS FOR LUTHERAN CHURCH

Handsone Structure of Brick and Concrete Will be Erected at Corner of East and College Streets.

The building committee of Salem Evangelical Lutheran church is soon to receive bids for the erection of a modern church on the site owned by the congregation at the corner of East and College streets. William Batz is chairman of the committee and Phillip Schultz, Sr., the secretary.

The members of the committee have given the matter of a new church very careful and painstaking consideration. Several trips have been made to other cities to inspect churches in the process of construction and the plans finally adopted represent to the committee a church structure they believe will be entirely satisfactory to the members of the church and congregation.

The building which will be of brick and concrete construction will face the east and will be located to the south of the parsonage erected during the past year. Gothic brick of several colors will be used in the general construction. The wall footings will be of concrete. The entrance steps and basement floor will be of granitoid construction.

The basement room will be used mainly for social purposes but will of course provide space for the boiler and other necessary apparatus.

The main floor will incline toward the pulpit, one central aisle dividing the comfortable news. The organ space will be at the right side of the pulpit and the vestry rooms at the left, that is, at the northwest corner of the building. While the main floor will be spacious additional seating will be provided in the balcony at the east side.

The building will have a slate roof and all lumber used in construction and finishing work will be of the very best quality. Particular attention has been paid to lighting and there are windows on both sides. A number of the windows will be of cathedral glass and the plans show them of a very attractive type.

The plans and specifications indicate that the people of the church are preparing for a handsome church edifice equipped in a modern way. The architecture is of the most substantial type, and the purpose has evidently been to use all the space to the best possible advantage. Bids for construction are to be received October 7.

The American Legion will serve burgo and ice cream at Woodson today. Soup ready at noon. Music by Woodson band.

Music a Great Factor in American Life

Instead of being the privilege of the few, music has become an important part of the everyday American life. Fewer professions, if any, promise greater rewards, and no other accomplishment gives greater or more enduring pleasure throughout one's whole life. This is true not only for the student of exceptional talent but for the average student as well.

LOCAL STUDENTS

Notwithstanding the gratifying large local enrollment at the College of Music, to which are added students from many states—we feel that there may be others who do not realize that it is only at the College of Music that a complete musical training can be had in Jacksonville. By this we mean that in addition to the subjects chosen by the student, he is given, even though a beginner, the added advantages of free instruction in those related subjects essential to musical education and enjoyment. Thus, the student receives correct training and makes more rapid progress.

DEPARTMENT OF YOUNGER STUDENTS.

Start your children right. That they will be started right and that later on they will not have to unlearn what they have learned is one of the things you are sure of at the College of Music. There is not even a financial reason for not starting your child here. Our rates for beginners are as low as $7.50 per semester in class work or private lessons with advanced students. At all stages of this work, the student is given the personal, individual attention of the teacher and of the supervisor of that department as well. By these means our students learn to enjoy music, practice is not a hardship, and the result is that music permanently enriches their lives, instead of being cast aside for temporary, useless fads.

DEPARTMENT OF OLDER STUDENTS.

Those who contemplate a musical career should at once take advantage of the training only to be had at the College of Music. We have a constant demand for teachers and music supervisors. Our graduates are filling paying positions North and South. Chautauqua work is another field in which there is a big and paying demand.

MANY FREE ADVANTAGES.

Absolutely free instruction is given to Junior students in these essential subjects: Harmony, theory, ear training, sight singing, eurythmics, music history and orchestra practice. Fifty public and many private student recitals fit students for public appearance and insure a repertoire of pieces that can be performed from memory. College of Music students have no such excuse as "I do not have my music with me."

FALL TERM STARTS TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

Arrange your enrollment at once by calling on Director Pearson. He will be glad to talk to you and suggest the work you need. An interview can be arranged by telephone if more convenient.

PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO ENFORCE AMATEUR RULE

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Directors of Western Conference athletics today pledged themselves to enforce the amateur rule and the basketball coaches decided to revise the schedules drawn up last season. An agreement also was made whereby each school plays its three "natural" rivals each year and takes on three of the other remaining six teams in alternate years. All teams will play each other at least once every three years under the new plan. The shift rule caused the football coaches the most trouble.

Coch Yost argued that the word "motion" in rule IX, section 5, meant absolutely no movement up, down, sideways or backward, except by the one man permitted to be in motion toward his own goal. After some discussion a rule was adopted "that after the shift is completed the whole body, not only the feet, must come to a stop at the same time."

THE NUT BROTHERS (CHES & WAL)

I WONDER WHY THAT HORSE WANTS TO STAY IN THE STABLE AND WON'T WORK ANY?

ON GRIDIRON THIS FALL IN WEST

By NEA Service.
SEATTLE, Wash.—Sweet, sweet to the ears of Washington University is the wall of Andy Smith over the hard job he's having to provide a good lineup for the University of California this season.

Where the Golden Bear is lacking, the Huskies are in clover, and this year the central quintet will average at least 190 pounds of fast football players.

New to Coast.
With the exception of Bob Ingham, tackle and captain of this year's eleven, all the line-men are new to the Pacific Coast conference, as at present constituted.

Bob Grimm, who was plucked by Walter Camp in 1917 for Camp's all-American second team, and is reputed to be the greatest tackle ever produced on the coast, will be back in school this fall, eligible to play. Grimm is a 260-pounder and the last of the famous Grimm family to make gridiron history.

Two New Men.
Two new men are Kuhn, 200-pound guard, and Hugh Walters, stars of last year's fresh team. Walters is the first member of Coach Bagshaw's famous Everett High school team of 1920—national champions in their class—to be eligible for varsity play, and much is expected of him.

Another valuable addition to the Washington line is Jimmie Bryan, whose great bulk is available for guard after a year's absence, due to an injured knee. Bryan later starred in basketball last year and was a unanimous choice for guard on all-coast quintets.

BROWNS DROP HALF GAME MORE BEHIND

Lose to Boston While New York is Breaking Even With Chicago Sister Resting Easy But Will Be Out of Game For Several Days.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 13.—St. Louis dropped a half game more behind New York today by losing to Boston 3 to 1, while the Yankees were breaking even with Chicago. Sister's absence due to an injured shoulder caused a rearrangement of the Browns' lineup.

Burns' home run in the sixth over the left field fence scoring behind Mitchell who had singled was responsible for the Red Sox victory.

While Sister was reported as resting easy today, his physician stated it would be inadvisable for him to attempt to get back in the game for at least a week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The New York Giants hit hard in the latter part of today's game and defeated Chicago 8 to 5. It was the fifth straight victory for the champions. Nehf had one bad inning, the third, when the first four men up hit safely and the Cubs scored three times. CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—New York and Chicago divided a double header today, the White Sox winning the first game 7 to 3 and the Yankees the aftermath, 6 to 3. GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS GOING TO MEREDOSIA

Jacksonville Business Men Expecting to Send Large Delegation to Conference—Purpose to Aid Plan For Road to Mount Sterling.

In addition to the all day Morgan County Farm Bureau Picnic at Meredosia today the Good Roads boosters of the county will hold a meeting in the Meredosia park at 7:30 this evening.

Mayor Berger in a recent letter to Mayor Crabtree indicated the purpose of the meeting was to organize and work for a hard road from Jacksonville to Mount Sterling via Meredosia Wagon and Auto Bridge.

Plans have been completed for an enthusiastic meeting and all good roads boosters are invited to attend. Committees from the Jacksonville city council, Chamber of Commerce, Automotive Dealers Association, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and Morgan County Good Roads Association will attend.

Jacksonville citizens have been leaders in good roads matters and the attendance at the Meredosia meeting will indicate our interest in the extension of the hard road system in the county.

CHAPIN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Board of Education met in regular session Monday evening. The large attendance at the high school demanded the Board's ordering some additional school desks.

Mrs. Ila B. Anderson, secretary of the Board, reported the receipts of drafts from the State Treasurer, for $1,073 as reimbursement for money expended for work done in vocational agriculture the last year.

The Board considered the advisability of doing further work this fall in carrying out the provisions of the warranty deed that relates to grading and beautifying the grounds. Action on this was deferred until a later meeting.

Permission was granted the high school athletic association to construct two tennis courts. The boys immediately starting work on this project.

The athletic association was recently re-organized with the following officers:

President—Delbert Aufdenkamp.
Secretary and Treasurer—Leland Bartelheim.

Before you buy your new car see the Jordan models at the State Fair—including the already famous Jordan Blue Boy in Blue Devil Blue—the greatest sport car ever built.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE CLUB MET AT BLUFFS

New Officers Outlined Work For Coming Year—Bluffs News Notes.

Bluffs, Sept. 13.—The opening meeting of the Household Science club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Albert Knoepfel Tuesday afternoon with twenty-five members and two visitors present. Mesdames H. O. and D. H. Smith of Chapin. Three new members, Mesdames J. H. Stewart, John O'Brien, R. D. Merris were welcomed into the club.

The retiring president, Mrs. J. C. Lewis, gave an interesting talk on "Our Aims" and spoke of the plans for the past year which were laid aside and the year passed with little or no progress in the way of civic improvement. This was followed by a talk by the new president, Mrs. Albert Knoepfel. The aim for the new year is to set a definite goal in view and by co-operative work reach that goal. After the business session an elaborate two-course luncheon was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Rose Chance of Springfield is the guest of Mrs. S. M. Carver and other friends in town. The annual I. O. O. F. picnic will be held in town Saturday.

Forecasting the Winter From A Fashionable Point of View

Fashions like events cast their shadows before them and the fashion for the winter of 1922 are casting most interesting silhouettes which indicate for the coming season a development and at the same time show departures from the fashions we have known.

The silhouette remains pretty much the same, straight of line, falling almost directly from the shoulder to the hem of the costume with merely an indication of the belt line. In spite of this similarity of silhouette there are several outstanding points of definite fashion interest about the new garments for the fall and winter.

The placing of the belt line and the length of the skirt are the two most striking differences. In the first place there is nothing literal about the present fashionable waist line for it is not placed by the up to date designer in the same anatomical position we once judged the place for it. We still refer to it as the "waist line" rather because it is a substitute of what we once knew as such. The real waist line is like the ear, it has not been shown for an age.

Winter Dresses Go to Both Extremes

In this one feature the winter dresses go to both extremes and while some of the designers accentuate the long waist line and the low girdle by making them lower even than they have been, others seek variety and a new note by raising the girdle to an empire line and place it high under the bust.

In either case the girdle is pretty apt to be finished at its front or side front with a handsome and interesting ornament. Sometimes this ornament is lengthened by long tassels of beads or fringes of the same color and again it is accentuated by folds of the material falling in full draperies from it, to entirely encircle the figure.

All skirts are draped, either entirely or in part. Some drape all their fullness to the side after wrapping themselves snugly about the hips, others fall straight the entire length of the skirt and depend upon the overskirt for drapery.

In general the hemline is even with the exception of a side point or dip. This often reaches to the floor and on some evening gowns is elongated to form a train. Skirts are longer than they have been. In fact they are as long as the designers dare make them and still hope to have them worn.

They are also full. The fullness however is artfully concealed and so arranged that skirt falls as straight as did the tubular ones of another year.

Promises of Heavy Black Season
While some colors are shown, it promises to be a heavy black season and black combined with white will be very popular for early fall.

A new dress that has recently come over from Paris is made of the black and white satin successfully combined and embroidered with pearl beads and gold thread. Black is always good for the informal dinner dress and no wardrobe is complete without one on its list of dresses. One of a new crepe material known as "Trig oddette" is shown with a round neck following the broad shoulder lines and the straight blouse falling from a fitted yoke to a beautifully draped skirt. The skirt is caught at the left side front with three long black silk tassels that fall to the bottom of the dress, and at the other side appears the only contrasting note on the whole dress, a handsome buckle of brilliants from which hangs a long point that scarcely escapes the floor.

Another dinner dress that is very new in design is made of black lace and black chiffon. The front of the dress is of the chiffon accented pleated which falls straight from the neck to the bottom of the gown. The back and sleeves of the blouse are cut in one and catch low under a fuchsia girdle of chiffon studded with steel nail heads. From this girdle falls a full circular skirt of the lace, the points of which come to the front and catch to the girdle. The sleeves grow wider as they reach the wrist and are banded with the fuchsia chiffon again studded with rows of the steel nailheads.

A dinner dress is distinctive for two interesting features. One is a latticed effect that forms the yoke about the shoulders and the low placed girdle on the skirt which is made of the same crepe fabric as the gown. The other telly that falls full across the back from the shoulders and side which are caught about the grows to long points at either wrists. This dress is shown in white with the lace cape of black in striking contrast.

Straight and Plain Blouses

For the young ladies who make their bows to the world during the coming season, is a charming frock for informal occasions. It is made of white georgette trimmed about the skirt with many rows of narrow Valenciennes lace and finds its way round and round the skirt. The blouse is cut straight and plain to blouse just a bit over a girdle of self material which is held at the front by two large rings of pearls through which pass the ends of the girdle weighted at the ends with long pearl tassels.

A dress that has a style of its own and an individual way of attaining it is made of crepe Elizabethan trimmed with silk braid. The waist is made with long sleeves that are wide as the waist itself at the top and narrow to a tight fitting cuff at the wrist. The braid forms a yoke effect that begins at one hand, runs across the shoulders at the front and the back and continues to the other wrist. A panel of several widths of the braid runs the entire length of the dress and the bottom of the over skirt is banded in the same way.

Developed in Heavy Flosses

All over embroidery patterns in bold designs are featured on the fall dresses in both the cloth models for street wear and in the silk and thinner materials for more dressy wear. They are developed in the heavy silk flosses, in chenille, mercerized cotton, in metallic thread, in narrow ribbons and braid combined with beads, nail heads, applique motifs of velvet and felt, and many short scraps of fringes that lend themselves in a fascinating way to the most novel effects.

Fringes are only used in the shorter varieties and many tassels are still seen in bead and silk combinations either in the color of the dress or to introduce a note of contrast. These tassels are long, some of them reaching the entire skirt length. Great imagination is shown in them and while some are long straight strands of beads or silk, caught under large and fancy knot-like tops, others length with cross bars or buckles to match those at the top of the tassel. Big beads in all the high Chinese colors are used as trimmings for the tassels and serve as weights at the ends of many of them.

Girdles Loosely Wrapped

Girdles are still shown on many of the most popular of the new models. They are made of beads, of different colors combined to harmonize with the gown. Strands of beads loosely draped about the dress suggest rather than form a girdle on many of the evening gowns made of lace or net and the soft drapes of satin charmeuse, crepe or velvet.

Lingerie Follows New Lines in Keeping With the Mode

"Out of sight, out of mind," cannot be said of the lingerie of the present season, for while designers of these delightful garments have been presenting ever new and more enticing bits of underapparel for our admiration and delight, they have quite outdone themselves this time. The things they offer are the kind that once again are never forgotten, but linger in the mind of feminine persuasion, until they are added to every own collection of dainty underthings.

Ever widening in scope of design, of fabrics used, ever trying to become more and more suitable to the outer garments worn above them, and more and more practical for various occasions, the undergarments seem to have reached their zenith in charm and originality.

Bloomers Are Preferred

There are garments for all occasions as has been said and there are garments to suit the tastes and purses of all women. There are those who prefer the bloomer to the petticoat, and there are bloomers designed to take the place of the garment that for centuries has been considered almost a necessary part of the feminine wardrobe. These bloomers are made of silk and crepes, trimmed with ruffles made of self material of lace, or georgette, sometimes caught here and there on the more dressy models with tiny bows of double faced ribbon or with tiny bouquets of French flowers.

Some of these are knee length and others extend almost to the ankle, or as far as is consistent with the length of the skirt worn over it. Skirts are growing longer, so many of the winter models may be shown to the ankle itself. Bloomers of darker materials are most practical for street wear under the tailleur of cloth or silk.

A lady's preference, or certain tastes may demand the use of a petticoat and for these have been reported models of different kinds. The more practical ones come in the darker colors of crepe de chine, Italian silk or the soft satins. They are trimmed with hand embroidery, with appliqued designs in contrasting color, which appear on the pleated pounces at the bottom of them. For the thinner dresses and the more dressy occasions are shown reported models of hand embroidered batiste or silk combined with lace in panels, in stripes, in additions, set upon yokes and insets of tuckered net so fashioned that no one could possibly mistake the French inspiration that designed and made them.

Some of these petticoats are combined with bodices and make charming slips for the summer wear or for the negligee. On the other hand, the deep hem effects of crepe or just often appear at the top and bottom of the slips, into which are run the patterns of the embroidery. Step-ins and night gowns made to complete the sets give the same scheme of trimming tried out on them.

Many Striped Designs

Georgette is popular in the late, in flesh and in many of the daintier and more vivid shades combined with laces and embroidered or tuckered nets, or more simply trimmed with just hemstitching or feather stitching to give a more tailored effect. Added to this form of trimming on the of the garments are large embroidered dots and eyelets. Fastenings holds many narrow strips together in the form of yokes and ends that suggest sleeves.

Dainty Simplicity Noted

Pongee has taken a place for it in the lingerie world and appears in the natural, in white and the delicate shades of flesh, light blue, green, and orchid. It is used for shirts, chemises, camisoles, nightgowns and pajamas, step-ins and bloomers, and is popular partly because of its smart appearance and partly because of durability.

This same idea is delightfully applied to lingerie made of gingham. This material has but recently made its debut into the land of lingerie but it promises to become a very popular fabric for undergarments. Chemises, nightgowns, step-ins, made of the tiny checked and small plaid patterns own in the best imported English ginghams make up very successfully in all the light shades. Appliqued designs of plain gingham form the trimming on most of them and the hems are held by hemstitching which trims them the same time.

Varied Styles Pleasing

Camisoles with even fronts to the place of shirtwaists with suits are also shown in new variations this season. These are of combinations of lace and that is embroidered or tucked or the hand embroidered bands, and sometimes with ed swiss.

Corsets have undergone more of change during the last few years almost any form of apparel have grown more supple, are made of softer materials, of suede materials and of their charm.

are made with larger belt lines, and flatter hips. Many of them consist of an elastic band made very wide which holds the figure snugly and at the same time comfortably for the athletic woman who needs both freedom of movement and support of surplus flesh.

Longer Brassieres Used

Brassieres are made of nets and laces, of all kinds of satins, sateens, Italian silk, the cotton fabrics both plain and embroidered, and are cut to suit any figure and for all occasions. The corsetless era was a short one and while corsets are back stronger than ever they are more comfortable, more attractive in material, and in the lines they give the figure. Due to them is the success of the outer garment for without a good figure, the best costume made would be an utter failure.

Forecasting the Winter

some of them loosely wrapped entirely about the figure, others passing across the back flat enough to seem like the yoke of the skirt part of the dress, and then draped in fold at the front, or hanging down either side in long ends, leaving the front of the dress unbelted and hanging perfectly straight.

This straight line at the front of the dress is one of the most decided features of the winter mode and is accentuated by the fact that the back of the dresses are bloused over a low girdle. This is particularly true of street costumes which are unusually smart this year. They are made not unlike the coat dresses of last season in that they make appropriate costumes for street wear with a fur collar, or they are equally suitably for later in the season, to be worn under the fur coat.

Worn Three Different Ways

They are made of the twills and serges and are simple of line, interesting as to sleeves; inserted panels, and cape and panel effects. A cape coat dress is finished at the neck with a braided roll of padded tan crepe which ties at the shoulder in a bow. The same gown has loose panels that may be worn three different ways, either hanging straight, caught under the girdle, or wrapped about the neck in scarf fashion in case the weather warrants it for warmth.

While dresses and coats will be made for the winter month many suits are being shown for the fall before the weather becomes too severe for them to be comfortable. There will be shown in the soft duvetyns and similar materials with the skirts made straight and comfortably short. The coats will follow the long lines for the most part and will blouse about the hips and roll high about the head and collars of fur or of the material and cuffs to match the collar. Twills and whip cords will also be seen in the more severe models and they will be trimmed with stitching and other tailored effects. The most dressy models will be embroidered and braided with fur applied at neck and wrists and additional bands placed according to the design of the coat.

An effort is being made to revive the circular effects in the skirts and also in the lower part of the suit coats. This requires a nipped in tight fitting coat above the waist. Variations of it are being sent over by the French designers, but American women seem to prefer the coats built on more box like lines.

Capes and Coats

In summing up the fashions for the coming winter it might be said that garments in general will be longer, waistlines will be higher or lower but never normal, sleeves will still tend to the dress most of its individuality and its decorative interest and girdles of different kinds will appear during the coming season in as great numbers as in seasons past.

Black will predominate again, though many colors will also be seen, particularly in combination with black. The crepe silks and the soft as well as the tightly woven woolen materials will be used for the dresses and suits, and fur, embroidery braiding, stitching, fagoting and other unique forms of trimming will be used for the day time dress, while lace, beads, garlands of flowers, buckles and other gayer, glistening trimmings will appear on the evening gowns.

For evening wear metallic laces, materials, and braids all will be shown, for nothing lends a more festive effect to the evening party than the glistening of beads and metal. Draped effects are coming back in great numbers and such gowns are trimmed with fringes, tassels and very striking ornaments, depending however on their own soft folds for the greattastic, of suede materials and of their charm.

The Proof of the Costume is the ACCESSORY Thereof

The accessories of the costume count so much these days it might truly be said that when a woman has the rest of her outfit she has but begun. There are shoe buckles, collars and cuffs, vests, veils, bracelets, pins, combs, purses, and dozens of other things that appeal to the feminine heart and make or mar the whole effect of the most thoughtfully selected costume unless they harmonize with it.

During the last few seasons the neck lines of the dresses have been very severe in shape and very trying to most women. To alleviate this, charming necklaces and collars have been presented by the designers which combine so successfully with the dresses of the present mode as to seem specially designed as a part of them.

Distinctive New Novelties

There are chains of all beads, made of contrasting color and a variety of sizes that make them individual, there are others made of beads strung on heavy silk cords which close at the front with large decorative medallions, finished with large silk tassels.

Other necklaces consist of black ribbons buckled at intervals with brilliant set buckles and ending at the front with studded plaques. These plaques on some are little locketts that open to show the pictures encaused inside, others, in the more expensive ones are studded watches.

Black ribbon is also successfully used for bracelets clasped at the top of the wrist with jeweled buckles or with jeweled watches. Other bracelets that are quite smart and gaining in favor are made of rings of composition in white, jade, black, red, amber or whatever the color scheme may demand. These are large enough to be worn high on the arm with the sleeveless dress and from them hang strands of smaller beads that fall over the arm for several inches. To be worn at the wrist or between that and the elbow, the small chain bracelets, studded at intervals with beads of pearl, or jade or of whatever color or combination of colors strikes the fancy of the designer.

Attractive Shoe Buckles

Speaking of buckles, there never has been a time in the history of dress when the shoe buckle took a more prominent place than at the present time. They are large and small, square and round, shaped like little fans and in tassels that dangle from mere buttons. They are made of cut steel, of bronze metal, of silver, of white metal studded with crystals, of colored stones and of jet. They are made to wear with low cut pumps or with those that strap the instep and show enough diversity of design to please all purchasers.

At a time when gowns are shown with very short of very full sleeves, the long glove is the logical conclusion. In some instances it is the elbow length glove in black or brown kid for the street costume, and the white glazed or suede for more dressy wear. Gantlet gloves are the most popular for the most useful glove, but all gloves are fancy. They are made with deep cuffs or combined colors, put together in points that radiate from the wrist, or they are stitched one color above the other, the upper one being cut in a design or perforated so that the contrast shows through when one is applied on the other.

Vivid in Color, The New Hats

Gaily Brighten
the Dullest Days

In selecting the season's outfit there is nothing more important than a becoming hat. To a becoming hat and a sense of humor is attributed the success of one of America's best known, and correspondingly most successful women artists. After all the hat is the frame for the face and the face is the most interesting part of the whole picture. Therefore as we have said before, the hat is one of the most important factors in the season's scheme of clothes.

New Ideas Evidenced

For the coming winter many new ideas have been introduced by the millinery designers. They have taken all the fabrics and shapes of other seasons and used them in new and original ways to portray the mode of 1922. There will be big hats and little hats, shaped hats and crushed hats and crushed turban effects, hats without brims and hats with them, brims that are cut close to the head at the back and gradually widen by many inches as they reach the front. There will be brims that turn up and brims that turn down, there will be the demure little hat inspired by the poke bonnet, our grandmother wore, and there will be the smart and dashing turban suggested by the peasant headdresses of foreign lands.

No matter how demure the inspiration of those hats may have been there will be always an up-to-date smartness about the new versions, for they are very striking in color and fabric combinations, and the brims are tilted with a certain daring that is both chic and modern.

Striking Color Combinations

Brilliant colors, Roman stripes, metallic effects, beads, buckles, gaudy feather trimmings are all shown in the winter millinery display. A little touch that is being worn by one of the best known actresses is a small wrapped turban in which are successfully and brightly combined a Roman striped ribbon with red predominating and the same vivid color in kid. At the front the only trimming is a large ornamental pin that is pushed through at a very effective angle.

A mushroom that combines felt and a narrow silver ribbon, a teresting way is developed in jade and silver. The large crown is made of the felt, and the brim gives a checker board effect by means of interlaced strips of the felt and a narrow silver ribbon. Felt holds its own persistently in the millinery world and appears on many of the newer models in combination with other fabrics, notably velvet, kid and the metal edged or entirely metal ribbons. It is also used for flowers, some of which are cut out and applied flatly to the hats, others are made more realistic and put in bunches or in wreaths. Perhaps the most novel of them all is the big catia fly that wraps itself about a center of yellow cholla.

Felts Much Liked

Felt fringes too are good and many of them are tipped with metal, sealing wax or nail heads to lend a sparkle to the winter bonnet. Perforated felt brims are shown either faced with contrasting color and fabric, or left for the narrow metal ribbons to lace themselves through the perforations.

Sport hats of felt are still good and one with a crushy crown upturns a rolling brim which is edged with an overlapping row of many colored felt disks edged with silver sealing wax.

While the interlaced effect described on the mushroom sailor is very popular, felt is often seen cut out in designs and applied flat to the brim and crown of the hat which retains a simple silhouette, and requires no other trimming.

Ribbons Effectively Used

Ribbons are used in many different ways. They are gathered and put on as facings to the small toques. They are made into flower-like rosettes, and are interlaced through the slashed brims and crowns of the simple hats. In their narrowest version they

AUTUMN-Well Shod Steps Forward

By Marjorie Howe Dixon

In tracing the illusive shoe mode, one must first determine the dominating features of a smart woman's costume for fall. What colors has she adopted? What skirt length does she favor? In which direction has she reacted from a brilliantly-hued spring wardrobe?

As to this matter of skirts there is diversity of lengths. Morning and sports demand a short skirt, and as a result a low heeled shoe. Afternoon and evening wear finds dresses longer, about eight inches from the ground. For these occasions the heel is higher, while for an elaborate evening costume, the heel receives special attention and is profusely decorated.

Colors Are Subdued

Then again there is this question of colors. Fall demands a lower key this year, in color tones, most of the vivid colors favored by spring having been laid aside. For steel wear the browns are favorites, tobacco brown, and the various shades of castor and fawn. Deep notes in burgundie red, smoked grays, navy and twilight blue have appeared in many smart outfits.

For evening wear, more brilliant shades are favored, a lovely sea blue being one of these. Scarlet and garnet are with us again, with almond, green and maize. For slippers there are offered many perfectly charming effects, combining straps and sandals, generally in plain satin. Crystal cloth, silver and gold brocade appear now and then. But the jewels, oh, the entrancing jewels! All sorts of arrangements of rhinestones with colored stones, cut steel and little fringes, ah, these attract the feminine eye.

Novelty Buttons and Fringes

Buttons of cut steel with or without pendants seem to have it all over buckles. Then there is the cunning little fringe which is laid over a single strap. Sometimes it is of even length, then again the fringe is graduated. Possibly tiny pendants hang in the fringe. And Paris shows jeweled heels—in fact all sorts of fancy effects in heels, obtained from lacquer, embroidery or stitching. For every day shoes are low. One may choose from black or brown kid, in oxfords or patent leather. For some, there are gun metal calf oxfords and tailored effects combining bands and patterns (almost never more than two straps) are found in similar leathers. In popularity, patent arrives first, next comes black kid, and also of all medium tan calf.

Many Strapped Models

Then if one cannot find exactly the right little boot among those mentioned, there are several combinations of leather from which to choose. Gray oze is trimmed with patent leather or gun metal, while black oze is similarly trimmed with patent and gun metal. Among the softer shoes for afternoon wear are many of the pretty leathers in strap patterns. Again patent leather comes first, then follows black satin and black kid. After that one may choose from delightful combinations.

Medium tan calf trims fawn or beige, or perhaps it is supplanted by brown patent leather. Patent or black kid trims gray oze as in the case of the more severely tailored shoe.

And Paris, ever new, lets my lady wear the most charming little red heels, whenever her costume is scarlet trimmed.

Sandals for Fall

Of course, fall disapproves of the liberal use of sandals. But who could resist this patent leather sandal, with a gray oze quarter, to which a gray strap fastens itself with a single button? And all this firmly planted on a one-inch covered Cuban heel.

Then there is another pretty patent leather sandal with a two-button single strap all gayly stitched with white. Another of the smartly tailored boots has a wide pointed band of oze lined in patent, firmly buckled across the instep. Its quarter is patent, and oddest of all, its heel was covered with tan.

One sees some lattice effects in tan oze. After covering the instep, these smartly lace up the side. Side gore shoes obtain some favor. There is an abundance of styles from which to make one's choice.

In the midst of so much oze it is difficult to choose. For a patent leather strap may completely mar the map.

FINE WOODS and COLORS in HOME DECORATION

Do you believe in signs?

Well, that is a large question. Signs of the times, one must observe and possibly believe in, and at present they are hopeful. If not inspiring, the present lively interest in good furnishings for the home is one of the most important of these and all sorts of agencies are busily at work, promoting and educating this interest. Lectures on home furnishings, food taste in arrangement, art in the home and so on, are well attended everywhere. And American women are acting on their own inspirations, as they receive them, and remodeling and redecorating with energy.

Furniture Is Substantial
The demand for substantial furniture, good colors and durability in coverings and drapes, attractive lighting, all these are being appreciated by the manufacturer and the demand is being intelligently met.

Among the woods that are sought after are the two old favorites, mahogany and walnut. These are used all through the home, dull in finish or polished, sometimes carved, sometimes plain.

ychromed. Gum wood is coming into use for less expensive pieces, and is combined with mahogany or used plain.

Color in home furnishings is now a subject of deep and continuous study. Gone are the days of dull and dismal rooms, with their inevitable depressing effect. Color is applied everywhere, but with the restraint of good taste. It rejoices the heart, but does not shout and clamor for recognition.

Some Interesting Effects

Specific instances of the use of high color are found in the brilliant coverings of some of the large chairs. Imported frames for these pieces are heavily carved. Petit point and crewel stitch make elaborate patterns in rich color for upholstery.

One at a time is the best rule for the use of these chairs, although an excellent hall arrangement combined two chairs, set either side a hall table. Over the table hung an Italian mirror, while glass candlesticks stood primly below, guarding a bowl of parchment flowers. And we must not forget the antique nails appearing as a reflection of earlier styles.

Color again declares itself in our fibre furniture, used almost everywhere. For painted pieces are very popular for the bedroom, and as for breakfast and sunparlor sets, why, it is really only occasionally that one sees mahogany or walnut finish, in these suites, so popular has the painted furniture become.

Cretan and Linen Coverings

Fibre furniture may be plain or upholstered. Cretan and linen for coverings are brilliant as usual. Deeply cushioned as they are these pieces are exceedingly comfortable. Painted finishes are many and varied, especially good blended effects having been produced. The better designs in wood furniture are being copied in fibre, and there has been an adaption of period styles as well.

Breakfast suites, for instance, are following Italian lines.

For the living room naught can take the place of luxurious over-stuffed davenports and chairs. For suburban homes of size the larger pieces are in demand with pillow arms and spring cushions. But for apartment and smaller houses lighter pieces are wanted, semi-overstuffed with carved bases and front legs.

Period Furniture Fashionable

Period pieces are good in design, the preference being given to Charles the Second, Queen Anne and Chippendale. Among the lighter pieces one finds some cane furniture, but the demand for that is growing less.

Embroidered motives on plain tapestry appear on many upholstered chair and sofas. Chenille edges their deep soft cushions. Damask appears on some of the lighter furniture while mohair is greatly in demand for the larger pieces. In this latter fabric plain and figured patterns are used.

It is noticeable that the prevailing desire for simplicity has produced a marked absence of French styles in the ornate periods of the Louis. Their elaborate coverings and scrolls do not accord with real American taste, which is more than ever demanding furniture designs from our own Colonial times. English period furniture of similar design is finding its place among the Colonial pieces.

Interesting Colonial Designs

Bedroom furniture and again that in the dining room is reflecting Colonial lines. Very attractive is a chintz hung room with its canopied twin beds, and quaint old rush seated straight chairs. A Windsor rocker awaits one just a little northeast of an oval rug from the days of our forefathers.

Another Colonial bedroom has low four-posted beds, and a severely chaste dresser. Its mirror stands between upright pedestals and looks primly across toward a handsome highboy, adapted to modern needs. Inlaid wood doors adorn the highboy with a wide drawer below. A vanity table with triple mirrors has a low bench to match, and a cunning sewing table on a high three-legged pedestal stands in a corner. Hooked rugs on the floor, silhouettes in oval frames on the wall and round cushions tossed about, complete this attractive setting.

Rug Rugs Lend Atmosphere
Not at all in contrast to these

Colonial designs are the severe lines of our modern painted furniture. While a different type of planning is necessary for a room in good taste in so modern a style, the general effect of simplicity is about the same. Chintz hangings color-frame the windows, with square lambrequins above. Old rug and hooked rugs seem appropriate. The bed with its square footboard and curved headboard is decorated with a design matching that in the chintz. The design sits squarely in the middle of a panel, either side of which are spaces latticed with wood. The bed wears a quilted spread, with stiff flowers appliqued, its pillow similarly treated. At one side stands a night table with a pretty lamp and candlestick. The triple mirrored dresser wears the same design as the bed and rejoices in cane seated bench to match.

For the Breakfast Room

Dining furniture is going through a period of adjustment. In some of the newer small houses, there is no dining room at all, and a breakfast alcove serves this purpose. A set for such a corner was well designed in Italian style in dull walnut. With benches, a table, and a small buffet the set was complete. Indeed more could not be fitted into this tiny room.

For a slightly larger room, sets are now furnished so that one may select out of two or three buffets or side tables, the one that will fit in most harmoniously. It is no longer considered necessary to purchase the whole set, and try to jam it uncomfortably into a small room. Dressers with open shelves are popular for the display of one's treasured china or glass.

More Elaborate Suites

Among the larger sets is a polychromed Elizabethan dining suite in walnut. A wide handsome buffet with inlays of burl walnut and hand carved legs stands across from a high chest of similar excellent design. The chairs are upholstered in woven tapestry, with a design from the same period. Table legs, chair legs and buffet legs all match with carvings of that period, used with restraint.

Indeed in all the adaptations of old designs to modern uses, a marked restraint is noticeable, in all of our furniture design. This, too, is a good sign of the times.

The New Hats

motifs of velvet, felt or kid.

The use of kid, of patent leather, and suede is one of the outstanding features in the display for fall and very novel and imaginative effects have been attained by the clever use of them. They form facings of brimmed hats, are crushed in combination with gay striped materials of silk persuasion to form the soft toques that come from the Oriental headresses, they are cut out in any number of fantastic silhouettes to paste themselves flat against a background of velvet, of silk, or of felt.

Fringes of leathers and suedes tipped with bright metal nail heads form a unique trimming for the models with upturned brims.

Unusual Embroidered Designs

Embroidery has proved its charm by enduring many seasons, and it promises to outdo all its own previous records in color and design for the coming season. Worked out in chenille, worsted yarn, in narrow ribbons, in metal thread, combined with beads of all kinds, with cutouts of fabric that contrast with the material of which the hat itself is made, embroidery lends itself most attractively to the winter mode.

Duvetyn in combination with silk or baronette satin in both the high colors and the more somber shades, promises to be good for fall. Bright colors will predominate for street wear, but there will always be the generous number of more dressy hats made of large, blocked lines for the more formal occasions and these for the most part will be of black cloth with colorful trimming saving

"The Best Place to Trade, After All"

What's What in MEN'S HABERDASHERY

By Milton B. Conhaim

Noticeable improvement in the execution of details, meaning better styles, better fabrics and better workmanship, will be seen in the fall displays of men's haberdashery. The battle for quality has been waged successfully and once more we are restored to the condition that featured wearables of pre-war days.

Manufacturers, in the stress of business caused by shortage of help and inability to get suitable material during the last few years have turned their attention to the nicety of things. That has resulted in a better finished product—a diverting change to all who seek the distinctive in dress.

White Shirts in Demand

Particularly does this apply to shirts in which there will be noticeably better fabrics and detailing. Simplicity, of course, follows. The white shirt has been high in demand by dealers everywhere. Its popularity is ascribed to the natural swing from the high colored silk shirts in which the candy stripes and loud effects predominated.

The trend is toward the solid colors, with tans and grays in the pastel shades dominating. These, of course, apply largely to the finer grades of madras shirts.

The white silk shirt will find its place in the sun, but the plain silks will find as companions the satin stripes and jacquard effects. Colored silk shirts, with variegated stripes and other effects are losing in favor.

Two-Button Band Cuffs

One of the newest things in shirts will effect the cuffs. The two-button and cuffs will be worn more than ever, but of course will not supplant the present day French cuffs.

Collar-attached shirts in madras, chevrons and flannels will be shown more than ever. The reason is found in the improved making of collars for such shirts. Heretofore the makers apparently took little pains in putting good collars on even high grade shirts.

Neckwear gaudier than ever will be made its bow this fall. That means the artillery or college stripes will be the vogue. This is in contrast to the usual somber effects that mark the beginning of the fall and winter season. Many will show the diagonal stripes in combination of two and three colors, featuring such as blue, silver and black, tan, gold and brown, etc.

Grenadine Ties Good.

Grenadine ties which reached the height of popularity this last spring will continue to be worn by good dressers and this season many new combinations of stripes and other effects are to be had. Bow ties also will be in good form with designs in three different styles, plain, dots or stripes.

Because of the interesting popularity of Oxfords for men's footwear we'll find more wool hosiery worn than ever. Featured for this coming season are the fine importations, principally from the English isles. They have brought to us an exceptionally high grade selection marked by its unusually fine weight, yet having sufficient warmth.

Among other hosiery one can select from camel hair or cashmere. Heather mixture and darker shades of blue, brown and gray—also black—are shown. Fine lisle and silk hose in fashion's best colors will remain in favor.

The pajama innovations which appeared last season will continue in favor. One is the coat that is buttonless, put on by slipping over the head and the other is the elimination of the draw string in the trousers. The latter is fitted and stitched to the coat which relieves the aggravation occasioned by slipped strings.

Lighter Underwear Favored

In underwear for fall and winter there is a tendency toward the lighter weight garments. This is due in a measure to the better heated homes and "warmth with-out weight" ulsters which furnish sufficient protection even on the coldest of days.

Collars for fall are a trifle higher than they have been recently, still low enough to make them exceedingly comfortable and stylish in appearance. The short, pointed models are preferred.

Fancy Fads in Kerchiefs.

In handkerchiefs fanciful fads are coming in strong. Colored borders and decorative effects are being displayed. Some silk and fine linen ones are being treated with one, two and three harmonizing colors. Colored initials and monograms are being used, even the white handkerchiefs. Pongee, which is normally a summer fabric, will be found among the fall stocks.

The better dressed men will wear two pairs of gloves. Buckskin or heavy cape is favored for every day service, and kid or suede for evening wear. Dark brown or gray is the preferred color and both plain and embroidered or stitched backs are given equal preference.

Tips on Styles in MENS HATS

By George Chapin

Feeling that they have been a bit behind the times in making changes, hat manufacturers this fall evolved several innovations that will be a noticeable difference from the styles of a season ago.

Both style and color will undergo a change. Browns which have had a long, long run will share the glory of the stage with a soft shade of green—more like an olive green or a soft merging of brown and grass green.

For a hat of this shade both manufacturer and retailer see a big season, for they say that there is no reason why the green hat should not be a big seller if the shade is softened and in harmony with the many overcoating materials for fall and winter.

Wider Brims, Wider Crowns

As for shapes the tendency is toward slightly wider brims and slightly higher crowns. For the last two years the smaller brims and smaller crowns featured most headwear and according to good dressers the fall styles will be a welcome change.

One maker comes out with a rather novel style arrangement, but whether or not it will prove popular is to be seen. The style concerns the crease in soft felt hats. It is a modification of the telescope crease, the Alpine crease and the "front pinch." The crown is telescoped all around except in front where it is creased in Alpine fashion.

Rough Finished Hats

Rough finished mixtures in the fedora or diamond shaped styles will be prominent. These fabric hats of two-toned mixtures and scratch effects are regarded as altogether practical and comfortable and are noted for their long wear.

As for the fine felts in tans, browns, grays and the new green shades nothing need be said about these except the colorings, since they are regarded as staples in the headwear industry. Later on with colder weather you will find more velour and heavier worn than ever. These aristocrats of the hat family are down in price and it doesn't require a large outlay to buy one now. During war men spent as much as $30 for a very good hat.

Derbies are Staple

Derbies, of course, will make a bid for patronage among a certain class of men, who are pretty much set in their ways. As with the soft hats the brims and crowns will be slightly larger, but the change will not be appreciably noticeable.

Hat bands will be about the same as last fall, with some hats showing contrasting shades. Although most hats will show the bows in the side, there still remains a few makers who will put them on the back.

Caps to be Favored.

Caps, naturally will get a big play and among the best styles are the one-piece variety, with variations as to the fitting in the back. One maker is putting out a cap make of duvetyne, but it is not believed it will meet with great success since the material will not stand up under inclement weather. Other caps are made of smart woolsens, including plaids, checks and solid colors.

The fur cap business depends, of course, on severe weather, and if the winter is a hard one there is certain to be a great sale of them, particularly this season since prices are down a little.

Furs are Designed to Flatter and to Comfort

Every fur that has ever been seen before will be seen again this year and some perhaps that have not been used as wearing apparel, or as trimming for suits and gowns will be brought forth and fashioned into something to adorn the stylish woman of the winter of 1922.

Coats and wraps will vie with one another for first place and both will be shown. For day time wear the coat is perhaps the smarter after several seasons of boleros, but for the dressy occasion and the evening affairs the cape is the wrap of preference.

Long Fur Collars

These capes for evening wear are made of mole, of seal, of ermine, kolinsky and other short fur trims with deep cape like collars or stole shaped revers. Many of them are gathered full on a yoke that fits snugly about the shoulders and they grow wider and wider as they near the bottom of the garment.

Linings for the capes are all the light shades. Some of them are the soft silks or satins embroidered in large designs, trimmed with contrasting ruffles of narrow ribbons. Others are the brocades with the designs woven into the fabric, shown on some of them in one color, in others in contrasting colors. The metal fabrics in the delicate shades are also shown trimmed with pleat-ings of chiffon applied in stripes near the bottom of the garment. At either side of these bands are often shown bands of metal galloon, or narrow metal edged ribbons shirred as a finish.

Sleeves Much Abbreviated

Sleeves in these wraps, if they could be called sleeves, are either just slits or are slits cuffed with narrow bands to match the fur of which the cape collar is made.

One lovely coat made of ermine is shaped to fit the shoulders as closely as would a fitted yoke and then falls in circling fullness to the heels of the woman who wears it. The hands protect themselves from the wintry blast in cuffs that band the splits in the sides of the cape and form the semblance of a muff when the hands are held together at the front.

This lovely cape of fur is lined with turquoise chiffon shirred and puffed in the most fascinating and intricate way.

Squirrel for Evening Wear

Squirrel too is considered very smart for evening wear and a wrap that attains its widest at the elbow is made of this fur and wraps about the figure, giving it a barrel shaped silhouette. There are not even slits for the hands in this model, but the collar stands high about the head without doubling back or crushing. It is lined with jade brocade banded with gold galloon.

The fur is cut and sewed together so that it forms a wide band of striped effect about the middle of the wrap.

Day time wraps of fur are made of the darker pelts, seal, kolinsky, sable and mink. They are both capes and coats, and are particularly attractive is the unusual use of the fur and the workmanship by which it is cut in stripes and sewed together forming squares, fan flares, and other designs.

Many of these garments are trimmed with the longer furs as fox, marten, fish and wolf which form large collars and deep cuffs as well as wide bands about the skirt of the coat or cape.

Elaborate Girdles Used

The fur coats are made with deep arm holes, long waist lines, huge rolling collars and are girdled with metal girdles, many of which are jeweled and buckled with very pretentious fastenings. Long heavy silk cords that end with large fancy tassels are also shown on the winter coats and seem to be the most popular of all girdles, though not so individual as some.

Girdles in the bright colors are developed in kid, suede and the leathers in all the high shades. In some of them patent leather is effectively used. They are perforated in interesting designs, lined with contrasting color of heavy silk or nickel nail heads. Buckles that close at the front are made of either the metal to match the trimming of the belt, or covered with the same fabric as the belt itself. Some of them are made of hook and loop and fall to long tassels made of the kid or suede.

Striking Color Contrasts

On some of the most unusual models, silk girdles are shown. Some of them are wide and crushed and others are narrow and faced with contrasting color that shows a bit at the edges. The collar of many of these are held close about the throat with corresponding ties that catch at the front or side in small bows that lend a bit of becoming color.

Blousy back and straight front effects are also shown in the fur coats and a few are fitted closely to the figure to the waist and then permitted to flare in a full circular skirt.

Sleeves too assume a circular fullness and are finished inside the cuff with linings that shir on elastic ties tightly about the wrist.

Fur Coats for Sports

For more practical purposes and for the winter motor coats the racoon and the muskrat are still favorites and nothing in the more dressy furs seem able to take their places with the woman who is out a great deal either for business or pleasure. They are made to hang full from the neck to the shoulder with long loose sleevesleaved jackets to be worn on the and deep shawl collars and are made with the belt which may be used or not according to the whim of the wearer.

Seal is coming back stronger than it has for some years and in fact stronger than it has since the winter when every woman and her sister had a seal coat. A few of them are all of seal being self trimmed with deep collars and cuffs, but for the most part they are trimmed with large rolling collars and deep cuffs of squirrel, fish, marten, fox or some other contrasting fur.

Worn Over One Shoulder

Fox scarfs are shown in great numbers and the lighter shades of white and the very lightest gray are coming back strong for street wear with the tailored suit or dress. The red fox and the pointed and silver foxes are still popular and the blue fox holds a place of its own. These skins are made into the round scarfs consisting of just one medium sized animal that hangs with the head over one shoulder and the tail over the other with the paws hanging gracefully between.

Muffs have not appeared for many a season as a fashionable accessory of dress, but they are replaced by pockets in the long stole like scarfs that are cut in many different sizes and shapes that adjust themselves from capes made to hang full from the neck to the shoulder with long loose sleevesleaved jackets to be worn on the mild winter days.

An Interesting Innovation
Suits of short napped furs were launched last year without much enthusiastic response from the women of fashion. Whether they were too much of an innovation or whether they did not appeal as practical it is hard to tell. However they will be shown again this year. A stunning coat dress made entirely of ermine and embroidered in crusted gold braid was worn at a recent showing.

Shoes and pumps of fur are shown to accompany these suits and dresses and perhaps the more popular costume is the three piece affair that consists of a dress of some silk or cloth fabric banded widely at the bottom with fur and worn with a coat of fur that extends to meet the band at the bottom of the dress.

As we have said before there never has been such variety of furs and fur garments. Furs of all kinds will be shown and they will be used in literally hundreds of different smart ways. They will be smart in inspiration and smart in effect, and no wardrobe will be truly complete without its fur wraps and scarfs.

Reviewing FASHIONS FOR FALL in Men's Clothing

While simplicity and conservatism continue to rule men's fashion in clothing this fall there is a tendency to break away from some of the sterner lines that have dominated the designs of the last few seasons.

Novelties will be pushed to the background, particularly in the apparel for the better dressed man, although the jazz and rah rah models which had a spurge this spring will be the main lines of some of the cheaper manufacturers.

All efforts to bring forth anything that is out of the ordinary have been rebuffed and the pendulum of style always swings back to the plainer and more dignified models. While women's clothes undergo radical changes from season to season men's apparel follows certain lines with almost religious fidelity.

Style Changes Noted
Here are the most notable changes which will appear in the three important groups for men's clothing:

The first long trousers, commonly called high school or prep suit, running in sizes up to 37, show high waists, narrower coats, draped skirts; one and two button coats with peaked lapels. Some have slanting pockets; others have regular patch pockets in front.

The coats are high chested, with square shoulders. These are the stylish modifications of the extreme coats that have been prevalent earlier this year and are shown in both the double and single breasted styles.

The second group leans toward the regularly fitted models, with two and three button coats. Some have peaked lapels; others the notched lapels, with regular pockets. They follow more closely than any other group the lines of coats of the past season.

The third group promises to show the widest range of change and if advance information is correct is expected to be the most popular. The coats are of the looser type, with softer construction of fronts. They are made with three and four buttons and have regular pockets.

The three button coats are identical with the four, except for the wider spacing of the buttons. These coats carry a short roll lapel, short straight vent, and are worn much looser than other types. This style is an odd growth of the coats made popular by college men. Because of their construction they will demand a wider trouser, which may be worn with plain or cuff bottoms.

As for prices, costs are practically stable. The manufacturer has passed through the period of readjustment and has placed his business in order. Unless the unexpected happens there will be no radical price changes for another year or two.

Like Double-Breasted.
The vogue of the double-breasted coat promises to be as popular as last year when there was a greater demand for such style than there had been for several previous seasons. Although they will not be featured they will receive more than their share of attention.

As for the trousers of most suits the style apparently has reached a happy medium. Neither the tight bottom nor bell-shaped trouser legs are to be worn extensively, but the general tendency will be styles that are straighter than heretofore. In some instances where no cuffs are worn the pant leg will break over the shoes.

The five-button vest will be with us again and the cut will be a trifle longer, particularly the points to conform to the new ideas.

Darker Colors the Vogue
As for colors there will be no partiality shown, although the darker shades naturally will have the call. But there promises to be more of the lighter tones shown than even. Brown, which is as staple as sugar, as well as blue, will be as strong as ever. There will be an ample presentation of grays, greens and mixtures.

The stripe idea in patterns which has been favorably received in recent seasons will continue in popularity, but there will be a slight variation of this idea in which there will be a combination of checks with stripes. Most of these designs are small and dignified.

There also will be shown a choice variety of the new diamond weaves, which originally was used in overcoatings, but, of course, in larger designs.

Loose Raglan Effects.
As for overcoats the style tendency is toward the loose raglan effects and the large English type ulsters, with half or full belts. Many will have the convertible collars and patch pockets; some are made with plain backs, others will have yokes and invested plaits.

The new things in young men's overcoats will be a full coat, forty-four inches long, with regular shoulders, small self collar and lapel. The sleeves are plain; there are three patch pockets and they have button through or fly fronts. This is the new type for college men who substitute an angora muffler for a storm collar.

Double-breasted models appear to be most favored, but some of the better makers are showing dapper single-breasted styles, particularly in the lighter weight coats.

You will not find many fur-trimmed models this coming season, but the detachable fur collar of beaver, seal or other promises to come in stronger than ever. Such collars permit the wearer to make changes in a jiffy to fit climatic switches.

Detachable Collars Favored
Fur-lined coats, of course, will be worn only in the coldest sort of weather and largely by motorists who are out a great deal. Since it appears that reduced prices of fur would make one believe that fur will be used more extensively than ever, the reverse is the condition, due largely to the trend of conservatism.

The practical idea in overcoat fabrics is back again. For several seasons the soft, fluffy fabrics were the vogue and while they made up beautiful they failed to give the desired service. Now the makers are putting cloth in their overcoats and this, of course, will the wearer.

Topcoats Regarded Essential
The topcoat, now regarded by most men as an essential part of their wardrobe, naturally is being worn more than ever. There is no radical changes in the styles, but the most important thing pertains to the tailoring, which after all makes the real style of the garment.

This leads to this conclusion that there is economy in quality. The man who will pay a little more than the average for his clothes will profit thereby. He will find that he will get much better fabrics, much improved styles, and a higher type of workmanship. tfsdfufy.ualaft
